If It's Home Furnishings You Need--See Us.

Doesn't it stand to reason that your needs and fancies can be better suited from a large stock than from a small one? Is it not equally certain that a house that has been for the length of time we have been furnishing homes in this locality and is today fitting up more of them than ever, must be pretty near right in goods, in prices and in treatment of its patrons?

You want values, not so much talk—you want satisfaction, not sentiment. Whether you seek the plain home necessities for two or three small rooms or the comfort and luxury of a well furnished large house, it is equally to your advantage to make this store your source of supply. Stocks are very full now, so come now and learn of the right things for fall furnishing.

AN EARLY MORNING FIRE

Downs Building and Stores of Arthur Dedes Damaged By Fire.

The building at No. 33, 35 and 37 Market street, owned by the estate of J. O. Downs, and occupied on the ground floor by Edward S. Downs and Arthur Dedes, was damaged by fire this morning.

It was at 1:40 when Police Officer Philbrick in passing up Market street discovered smoke issuing from the store of Mr. Dedes. He sent in an alarm from box 51 at the corner of Bow and Market street.

It was at first thought that the blaze was near the lobster kettle in the back room of E. S. Downs' fish market and the firemen broke in there and then into the next room where they found it in the partition between the front and rear rooms of Mr. Dedes' fruit store. A good stream easily put it out.

The fire did not get above the first story though considerable smoke penetrated the rooms above. As the upper portion had been newly painted and papered there may be considerable damage, in addition to the burning of part of the floor and partition. Mr. Dedes' loss is confined to smoke flavoring his stock of fish, etc., and this morning he estimated it as about $100.

Mr. Dedes makes no estimate of the loss, but his entire stock in trade was exposed to the heavy smoke and some of it was scorched as well.

The building is insured as is also the stock of both stores.

The fire is given another half hour would have threatened the whole block. Its origin is a mystery.

The fire engineers, Chief John D.

Damage in Three Stores

Besides the stores of Mr. Dedes and Mr. Downs, which have connecting back rooms, the smoke penetrated the adjoining store of M. Siegel, dealer in women's ready to wear goods. Mr. Siegel's loss is heavy, and his store is closed today.

The insurance adjusters are today inspecting the building and the three stores.

BODY FLOATED ASHORE

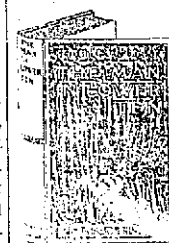

Boston, Sept. 20.—The body of a man, with the head missing, came ashore on the beach at North Scituate, and is believed to be that of one of the members of the crew of the ill-fated schooner, Davis Palmer, which was wrecked off the entrance to Boston harbor last winter. There was no way of identifying the man, who seemed to have been about five feet eight inches in height and 170 or 180 pounds in weight.

Academy Football and Opening

Apple Buyers Have Arrived in Good Numbers

Exeter, Sept. 20.—According to plans previously arranged Monday was to have marked the opening of the football practice at the Phillips Exeter academy, but Coach Fred W. Murphy has deemed it unwise to devote any time to the practice till the school opens, and it is ascertained just who have entered school. The old players were ordered to report Monday but only members of the last year's squad who had arrived were Harry Faulkner, the right end, and "Pie" Way of Manchester, who stated that he was "going to try it again this year." Way played two years ago and a part of the season last year, but a broken bone in his ankle prevented him from finishing with the squad. Haggerty, formerly of the Boston English high, and who played during the early part of the last year's schedule, arrived Monday and will probably join the squad which goes to Plympton field Wednesday. There will undoubtedly be more arrivals and Wednesday should see a large squad on the field. Captain Cornell will not return till about the middle of next week, as a fever during the past summer at his home in Freeport, Pa., has put him back in studies and athletics. Mr. Murphy coached the last Exeter eleven which defeated Andover in 1904 by a score of 35 to 10 and since then the late Jas. J. Hogan of Yale tried three times without success and John Glaze of Dartmouth twice. Exeter is gratified at the prospect of many star athletes who are to enter this year. It appears like a bright year for the red and gray.

Preparations are well under way for the beginning of the 128th year the Phillips Exeter academy, and the advance guard of the large number of students expected has already arrived. Incoming trains from both directions have brought many new boys, and also old ones, for the opening exercises on Wednesday at 12 o'clock. Registration took place Monday from 9 o'clock till 12, and also from 2 till 6, and it will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday at the same hours in room 5 at the academy building. Today examinations for admission are being held and applicants examined from 12 to 1 in arithmetic, from 3 to 4 in English and from 4 to 5 in history. The school year will open by chapel exercises at the noon hour on Wednesday, when studies will be assigned and the recitations will begin at 8 o'clock on Thursday morning. The students who have arrived are busy in arranging their rooms and study schedules.

John T. Elkins, a local taxidermist, has mounted a handsome parrot which was 18 years of age. It was owned by parties in Haverhill, Mass., and is said to have attained a ripe old age.

Apple buyers have begun to arrive here and make the rounds of the neighboring country, buying the apples, which are said to be plentiful this season. Apple orchards are well filled with the fruit and the appearances are that the fruit will be plentiful and cheap, a decided contrast to the conditions of last season, when they were scarce in this section of the state.

Miss Annie Tuttle has returned from a five weeks' vacation spent in the White and Green mountain regions and in Canada.

Mrs. Lizzie F. Elkins is attending the national encampment at Atlantic City N. J., as a delegate of the senior vice of the Woman's Relief Corps. She left for Manchester on Monday and started from that city together with a party from here.

Robert B. Dresser, a member of the class of 1898, Phillips Exeter academy, was a visitor here on Monday, calling on former friends and acquaintances.

The annual harvest supper of Gilman grange was held on Monday evening in the new quarters of the grange at Unity hall, it making the initial meeting and christening of the quarters which have recently been remodelled for the organization. The attendance was large, and a most enjoyable evening was spent by the members. The tables were laden with edibles and many partook of them. Master Omer S. Rowe spoke on "How to Maintain Prosperity in the Grange," Charles W. Barber on "The Influence of the State and National Granges," Stevens W. Perkins on "The Modern Farmer," Dana W. Baker on "The New Era," Postmaster George L. Stokel, Jr., on "The Permanency of Our Patriotic Observances," Charles C. Hayes on "Cooperation in the Grange," Charles W. Merrill on "The Present Era of High Prices," Edward H. Richards on "Civic Righteousness," Arthur W. Dudley on "The Waste of Our Resources," and William C. Green on "Harmony." Charles W. Rogers acted as toastmaster and presented an appropriate discourse.

DOVER DOINGS

Dover, Sept. 20.—Rev. Benjamin F. Eaton, the venerable pastor of the Peabody Memorial Universalist church for the past five years, has tendered his resignation to the parish society, to take effect as soon as a committee, appointed to secure his successor, has performed its duty. The resignation was submitted at the parish meeting last week, but was not made public until Monday. Mr. Eaton was pastor of this church more than 40 years ago and served five years. This was his first charge as a settled pastor. He has been preaching now half a century, and it is especially notable that his career as a minister was begun and is brought to a close in the same church. Mr. Eaton came here from Medford, Mass., in 1905. Last Friday was his seventy-fourth birthday anniversary and that evening the members of the Young People's Social Union of his parish presented him a gold headed cane as a birthday gift.

There were eight prisoners in the police court dock on Monday and the auditorium was filled to its capacity with spectators, attracted chiefly by the Syrian stabbing affair which occurred at the corner of Main and School streets Saturday night. Bishara Dakhara, the Syrian, who it is alleged did the stabbing, and who was arrested in the railroad station at Hollisford, about three miles east of this city, was charged with committing an aggravated assault upon Nicholas Betras. Attorney Walter W. Scott appeared for the prisoner and entered a plea of not guilty. City Solicitor Hughes had previously asked the court for a continuance of the case on the grounds that the man assaulted, by reason of the nature of his injuries, was unable to appear in court, also that the state desired longer time to gather evidence. The defence being agreeable, the case was continued for one week, the prisoner being held in $1000 bonds, in default of which he was committed to jail. The others were petty cases.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Annual Convention to Be Held at Manchester in October

Manchester, Sept. 20.—The thirty-seventh annual convention of the New Hampshire Sunday school association will be held in Manchester, Oct. 18, 19 and 20, in the Hanover street Congregational church. Visitors and delegates from all over the state will be in attendance. The program committee has secured the following list of speakers:

W. C. Pearce of Chicago, who will represent the International Sunday School association. Mr. Pearce is secretary of the "organized class work," and knows more about the great adult class movement than any other man living.

Hamilton S. Conant, general secretary of the Massachusetts association; L. E. Ware, elementary secretary of the same association; R. F. Armstrong of primary work fame, and several other out of the state speakers.

Delegates will meet and hear Roger B. Thompson, general secretary, Geo. W. Hendrick, elementary secretary, and many others who will co-operate with the "Biggest, Brightest and Best" convention ever held in New Hampshire.

TWO BODIES FOUND

Of the Party Drowned at Newburyport Last Saturday

Newburyport, Sept. 20.—Two bodies were washed ashore at Plum Island Monday afternoon and were secured by the members of the Newburyport life saving crew. One was the body of Percy E. Fountain of Lawrence and the other that of Patrick O'Brien of Dover, N. H., two of the four men drowned in a boating accident on the Newburyport bar Saturday afternoon.

Identification was established by Raymond Fountain of Lawrence, by means of the clothing and marks on the body.

The remains were brought to the rooms of a local undertaker and viewed by Medical Examiner Murphy of Amesbury. They will be sent to the home cities for burial.

"The Wolf" Tonight at Music Hall.

"The Wolf," the sensational success by Eugene Walter, comes to Music Hall tonight.

In "The Wolf," Mr. Walter has gone to the picturesque and wild Hudson Bay country for his characters and locale, a fine spot about which to lay a melodrama. The story really begins some years before the curtain rises at a time when a half-breed of Jules Desbabin has been led astray by an American adventurer. This man has later departed with the woman, and all trace of them has been lost. The disgrace brought upon Jules' father weighs upon him, and he can't help but expect a promise to find his step sister, Annette, and care for her.

Jules sets forth, and the first act finds him at the home of Andrew McTavish, on the banks of the Wind river. The brother has already learned that the sister has found a willing his assistant, George Huntley, who are promoting the construction of a railroad. The former has been making love to McTavish's young daughter, Hilda, a child hated by her father because she has the misfortune to be a girl. McDonald, although a married man, declares that he will win the girl and with the consent of the father he is about to carry out the threat when Jules interferes. He himself is in love with the girl, but has never spoken affection. During his boasting McDonald lets slip the fact that it was he who wronged Annette, and from that moment his fate is sealed.

In the fight which follows, Huntley, takes sides with Jules and Battiste, and the trio escape along the Little Bar river. When they are safely out of danger Jules leaves the others to go on while he returns to the McTavish home to kill McDonald and avenge Annette. Before he can start, however, McDonald appears to regain Hilda, and a duel is fought. The fight occurs in the dark and is the strong scene of the play.

CADILLAC WAR CARS' WORK BIG FEATURE OF MANEUVERS

It is not unlikely that a very interesting report will be received by the war department at Washington on the efficiency of automobiles in military operations, based on the work at the recent Peoria (Illinois) maneuvers of the two Cadillac gun cars owned by the Northwestern military academy.

The Cadillac cars were in active service throughout the maneuvers and Major R. P. Davidson, commandant of the Northwestern, writes the Cadillac Company that they were given the most extraordinary missions to execute. These are the machines which went through the Glidden tour, and Major Davidson says that, knowing their capabilities as well as he does, he was gratified to see them do things on the maneuvering field which he had supposed were not possible for an automobile.

Colonel Romaine, who was the chief umpire at the maneuvers, is reported to have said that the work with the Cadillacs had thoroughly convinced him to have said that the work with operations.

WHO OWNS THIS BIRD

A handsome carrier pigeon is in possession of Lincoln Coleman of Deer street. This dove landed in the yard of his residence during a recent storm and nearly exhausted when picked up by Mr. Coleman. The aluminum ring attached to his left leg has the following "R. V. O., 77332." The bird appears to be contented in his new home, and his condition is much improved from the care given him by the Deer street resident, who hopes to find the owner soon and return the bird to the flock.

STATE DEBT

DECREASED

Is $128,591.85 Less than it Was Twelve Months Ago

Concord, Sept. 20.—A statement of the receipts and disbursements of the state treasury department for the year ending Sept. 1, 1910, has been issued by Judge William B. Fellows, state auditor.

There has been a reduction in the debt of the state during the year of $128,591.85, and there has been paid on the new state house the sum of $327,009.89 from the ordinary revenues, thus doing away with the necessity of a bond issue authorized by the legislature to meet the cost of the building.

The sum of $371,756.93 has been paid for highway construction. Besides disbursements to meet the cost of other matters authorized by the last legislature in addition to paying the ordinary expenses of running the commonwealth, amounting to $691,593.40.

LOCK OF HAIR IS IDENTIFIED

Woman Says It Is From Head of Mrs. Crippen

DISINTERRED IN CELLAR

What Is Considered Damaging Evidence Against Doctor Will Be Used at Resumption of Murder Trial—That Marriage Agreement Existed Between Accused Man and Miss Leneve Is Brought Out at Inquest

London, Sept. 20.—Another blow was given to Dr. H. H. Crippen's hope for liberty when the wife of Dr. T. H. Burroughs, Crippen's closest friend in London, identified a lock of hair, which was disinterred with portions of the human body in the cellar of the Crippen hideout at Belle Elmore, as Mrs. Crippen was known on the stage.

This identification was made at the resumption of the Crippen inquest before Coroner Schroeder and it was indicated that it would be strongly used by the crown at the resumption of the murder trial.

Mrs. Eugene Stratton, a chum of Mrs. Crippen's and a fellow-member of the Music Hall guild, who assisted materially in clearing up the mystery in London, took the stand and testified that Mrs. Crippen told her she had undergone an operation in March, 1909. It was Mrs. Stratton who kept up interest in the search for Mrs. Crippen which finally led to the arrest of the American doctor.

"That is surely from the head of Crippen's most kind wife," exclaimed Mrs. Burroughs, when shown the strand of hair. The lock of hair will likely be introduced in evidence against Crippen later in court.

That a marriage agreement existed between Crippen and Miss Leneve was shown by the testimony of Mrs. Jackman, at whose home Miss Leneve lived for a time after she secured a position in Crippen's office. The witness said that Miss Leneve confided to her that Mrs. Crippen had threatened to elope to America with a man, Miss Leneve, according to the witness, had been told so by Crippen. Miss Leneve then told Mrs. Jackman that she loved Crippen and had consented to marry him as soon as his first wife eloped and he could secure a divorce.

Mrs. Jackman testified that Miss Leneve was under a terrible strain while waiting for Mrs. Crippen to elope. Almost every morning she descended to the breakfast table with her eyes red and swollen from weeping.

EXPLOSION ON TUGBOAT

Steam Scalds One Man to Death and Another May Die

Boston, Sept. 20.—Ralph Spiney, aged 32, was scalded to death, and Axel Anderson, aged 37, was scalded probably fatally when the main joint of a steam pipe leading from the boiler on the tugboat Vigilant blew out in the harbor near the Graves.

A torrent of scalding water spouted squarely into the men's faces. Spiney inhaled some of the steam and the internal burns caused his death. Anderson has a slight chance of recovery.

Both were deck hands on the Vigilant, which was engaged in towing a dragger. How the joint blew open has not yet been determined.

INCUBATOR BABIES DIE

Doctor and Wife Who Exhibited Them at Fair Are Arrested

Louisville, Sept. 20.—Dr. Douglass Bayder and wife of Pittsburg, who were arrested after the death of three incubator babies at the state fair here, have been released on $500 bonds. The three tiny victims were buried in Cave Hill cemetery at the expense of the doctor.

The physician and his wife were arrested on warrants, sworn out by County Attorney Bullitt, charging "unmerciful exposure of a child" and "exhibiting for gain or reward an infant under 6 years of age."

LARCENY OF $314,403

Charge Upon Which a Prominent Lynn Man Is Arrested

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 20.—James T. Lennox, junior member of the bankrupt firm of Patrick Lennox & Co., was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff Wells, charged with the larceny of $314,403.91 from John W. Farrell, Charles Well and Sumner S. Well of Boston. He was released on $50,000 bail, which was furnished by his wife and Fred E. Baker, a real estate man.

The indictment charging Lennox with larceny was returned by the grand jury at Lawrence yesterday. Twenty-five counts are numbered in it.

The indictment and arrest of Lennox is an outgrowth of the bankruptcy of the Lennox firm, which went to the wall during the panic of 1907.

In the indictment it was specifically charged that Lennox had hidden assets of the company amounting to the figure named, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest by Judge Schofield.

WANTS HIS WIFE BACK

Unfrocked Priest Is Not Likely to Have His Wish Gratified

Trenton, Sept. 20.—Alphonse M. Consolazio, the young Italian priest who gave up his calling to marry Miss Katherine Johann, and who later left his young bride to go to Italy to appear before the pope and take whatever punishment awaited him, has sent a letter to his wife asking her to return to him. It appears that the unfrocked priest was not successful in his attempt to gain an audience with the pope. He then wrote his young wife, professing his love for her and beseeching her to return.

Franz Johann, the girl's father, intimates that Consolazio will receive a reception, but not the kind he desires, should he try to see his wife. Mrs. Consolazio has appealed to the chancery court for an annulment of the marriage.

Alphonse Consolazio met Miss Johann in Italy two years ago. On May 24 they were married in Atlantic City. The priest subsequently was unfrocked.

Saloonkeepers Start a Graff

Probe at Cincinnati

Cincinnati, Sept. 20.—Official investigation of charges of graft and favoritism in the treatment of saloonkeepers by members of the Cincinnati police department has been begun by Safety Director Small at the direction of Mayor Schwab.

Chief of Police Miliken was ordered to present charges, filed with him three months ago by James Mulligan, a saloonkeeper, in which it was asserted that the police had been attempting to break up Mulligan's business after he had paid twenty tribute for five years for the privilege of keeping open after midnight.

Other saloonkeepers declare that when they stopped paying for gambling privileges they were repeatedly arrested, while competitors who continued to pay were not molested.

WITH MORE TO FOLLOW

Four Candidates For Maine Senatorship Already in the Field

Portland, Me., Sept. 20.—Democratic candidates for United States senator continue to multiply. Charles P. Johnson of Waterville has formally announced his candidacy in a letter to members of the legislature.

George P. Haley of Saco, who had some support for the Democratic nomination for congress in the First district, has decided to become a candidate and will make his announcement within a day or two.

The candidacy of Obadiah Gardner of Rockland and George M. Hanson of Calais has already been announced and there will be others.

HEAVY SEIZURE OF CLAMS

Two Hundred Dozen Cans Held to Be Improperly Labelled

Boston, Sept. 20.—United States Marshal Ruhl seized 200 dozen cans of what were labelled "Little Neck Clams, Extra Quality," libelling the entire shipment, which was on the property of steamship and railway companies.

The goods were consigned to a Boston wholesale grocery concern from Lawry, Me. The government contends that the goods are not of the variety stated on the label.

Lightning Hits New Clay Statue

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 20.—Lightning struck the statue of Henry Clay in the Lexington cemetery, shattering an arm and leg of the figure. The memorial was unveiled in July and took the place of a similar monument which was struck by lightning in July, 1908.

Many Violent Deaths in Hub

Boston, Sept. 20.—Fifty violent deaths in Boston's record for the past forty-nine days. This was disclosed when the homicide bureau began to prepare the evidence for the inquests that will be held Friday.

EACH IS GOING ON OWN HOOK

Taft and Roosevelt Have Arranged a Truce

CONFER AT NEW HAVEN

President Assures His Predecessor of His Support in New York Campaign, but Nothing Is Said of Candidacy of Either in 1912—Chief Executive Is Letting Question of Renomination to Office Look Out For Itself

Albany, Sept. 20.—Although the meeting of President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt at New Haven was apparently successful in its "scenic effect," and something in the nature of a truce has been arranged regarding the New York situation, each will go his own way, after the Empire State campaign is over.

Mr. Roosevelt is said to have let drop the hint that, as to his side of the matter, "something will be doing" after the elections.

President Taft and Roosevelt met yesterday for the second time since the former president's return from Africa. Roosevelt sought the conference with the president. It was plain from all that happened before and after the meeting that Roosevelt and his close political advisers are not a little worried over the situation in New York state, and came to the president for further evidence of his moral support.

This the president was glad to give. He said his position in the New York state fight had been clear from the very first. He said he sympathized heartily with the fight against "bossism."

Mr. Taft reiterated the statements he made in his letter to Lloyd C. Griscom at the time of the Sherman-Roosevelt controversy over the temporary chairmanship. This letter, he added, stated his position fully and accurately and he was standing on it absolutely.

President Taft and Roosevelt did not discuss the question of the presidency in 1912. The president has not been advised as to what Roosevelt's attitude is toward that campaign. From sources close to the president it was learned there was no occasion to discuss this subject. Taft's position is this:

He is willing to run if nominated. If his friends think there is a good chance for him to be re-elected, Taft feels that they will see to his nomination, which cannot be prevented even by Roosevelt. If the people do not appear to want him, Taft will be only too glad to submit to their decision.

It can be said that Tuesday's meeting, while it was of moral advantage to the Roosevelt leaders in New York state, was absolutely barren of results as to any better understanding between the president and Roosevelt as to national issues or their personal relations in view of many recent events.

Mr. Taft is entirely satisfied with the position he has taken. He is not out hunting for delegates or endorsements for renomination. Even the thought that Roosevelt may be in the fight against him does not appear to disturb the president in the least degree. He feels every man is at liberty to do as he pleases, Roosevelt among the rest.

There is no doubt, however, that the shadow of 1912 hung over Tuesday's gathering. There was not the cordiality of old between the president and the colonel. It was the first time they had met since the story was given out at Oyster Bay that Roosevelt felt Taft "double crossed" him in New York and had "sold out to the bosses" there in return for a pledge of delegates in 1912. The president felt the injustice of that story keenly. It is said, and as a result of it the relations between him and Roosevelt can never be the same again.

It came out at the conference, which, in addition to the president and Roosevelt, included Lloyd C. Griscom, Otto Bernard and Secretary Norton, that the Taft administration is to be endorsed at Saratoga. No mention of Taft as a candidate in 1912 will be made.

Oklahoma Girl Confesses to Killing Her Father and Uncle

Arkansas City, Kan., Sept. 20.—Miss Ebby Shepard, 16 years old, whose father, J. W. Shepard, and uncle, Taylor Shepard, were slain at their home in Newkirk, Okla., last Friday, has confessed that she killed the two men with an axe.

In her confession the girl declares the cause of the crime was that the men whipped her.

Drastic Measures to End Strike Manchester, Eng., Sept. 20.—The Federation of Master Cotton Spinners decided on a general lockout on Oct. 1 unless the Fern Mill dispute at Oldham is settled before that date.

In the event of a lockout 150,000 operatives will be affected directly. This action follows the refusal of the Fern mill employees to submit a local grievance to arbitration.

SHRINKS TO $3,000,000

Wyman Fortune For Princeton Not So Large as at First Supposed

Salon, Mass., Sept. 20.—A considerable dwindling in the value of the estate which Isaac C. Wyman of this city left to Princeton university for the founding of a graduate school was apparently indicated in the inventory of his real estate holdings in Massachusetts and of all his personal property which was filed in the probate court here.

The total mentioned in the inventory is but $359,891, and, while extensive real estate holdings of Wyman in many other states must be added to this, it is believed now the aggregate will fall much below $3,000,000.

At one time it was believed Princeton would receive as much as $10,000,000 from its alumnus, but later estimates seemed to fix the estates at about $3,000,000.

DIPHTHERIA CLOSES FOUR BIG SCHOOLS

Disease Has Firm Hold in Polish District of Westfield

Westfield, Mass., Sept. 20.—An epidemic of diphtheria in the Polish section of this town has become so serious that the health authorities and school committee decided that four of the largest schools should be closed this week, giving an enforced vacation to 1500 pupils.

Thirty-five cases of the disease have been discovered thus far, from which five deaths occurred within a week. The epidemic has been confined to the Polish district, where the health authorities have found it difficult to enforce sanitary precautions.

GOING AFTER GAMBLERS

New York County Grand Jury Asked to Prepare For Action

New York, Sept. 20.—The county grand jury has been requested by District Attorney Whitman to "clear the decks" for action against the gamblers. Investigation of conditions in the Tenderloin and elsewhere, regarding which Acting Mayor Mitchell recently complained in a letter to Police Commissioner Baker, is consequently expected to begin speedily.

The district attorney made the request during an interview of more than an hour with Foreman Learcott of the grand jury. Whitman later said that he expected data upon which the grand jury could work to be put in his hands by Baker in accordance with the acting mayor's instructions to the latter.

CHARLES R. HEIKE

Accused Official of the American Sugar Refining Company

EIGHT MONTHS GIVEN TO HEIKE

Court Also Imposes Fine of $5000 In Addition

HE WAS "MAN HIGHER UP"

Judge Grants Stay in Execution Pending Appeal to Be Made to Higher Court by Former Secretary and Treasurer of Sugar Trust—Inclined to Suspend Sentence, but Inflicts Punishment as an Example

New York, Sept. 20.—Charles R. Heike, former secretary and treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, who has been called "the man higher up" in the Sugar Trust, was sentenced by Judge Martin in the United States district court to serve eight months in the New York penitentiary on Blackwells Island and pay a fine of $5000 on conviction of conspiring to defraud the United States government by the underweighting of sugar.

Judge Martin granted a stay of execution of the sentence pending an appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals. The court reduced Heike's bail, which had been $25,000 pending sentence since his conviction last June, to $15,000. John B. Stanchfield, Heike's counsel, gave immediate notice that an appeal would be taken.

The court's sentence of Heike is the culmination of the federal government's prosecution of American Sugar Refining company officials and employees growing out of the extensive underweighting frauds on the Williamsburg docks of the trust, brought to light by Richard Parns' famous raid on the docks in 1907. Four witnesses for the company and Oliver Spitzer, their dock boss, were convicted on the first criminal trial in connection with the frauds, and the witnesses are still serving out their sentence of a year in the Blackwells Island penitentiary.

Spitzer, who was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta penitentiary, was pardoned during the trial of Heike and of Ernest W. Gerbracht, the refinery superintendent, and four minor employees of the company for conspiracy. He turned state's evidence and his testimony played an important part in the conviction of Heike, Gerbracht, and the checkers found to have been implicated in the frauds. The Sugar Trust, meanwhile, had paid the government more than $2,000,000 out of which it was shown the customs had been defrauded by the underweighting operations.

Heike first pleaded immunity, because of the testimony which he had given before the federal grand jury in another sugar trust proceeding. His plea, however, was overruled by the United States supreme court and he was tried with the other defendants. Gerbracht was sentenced recently to two years in the Atlanta penitentiary and is to pay a fine of $5000, but it was allowed a stay pending appeal.

In imposing sentence Judge Martin said that as Heike had only been convicted on one count of the indictment charging him with aiding the conspiracy, instead of all six counts, as the other defendants had been, and taking Heike's age (66 years) and his accustomed mode of life into consideration, he would be inclined to suspend sentence altogether. But as punishment must be inflicted as an example, he could not follow his personal inclination, and therefore added the eight months' prison sentence to the $5000 fine.

SHOT THROUGH THE BACK

Painter Heath Was Kneeling at Work When Life Was Taken

Lexington, Vt., Sept. 20.—It was definitely established at an autopsy that William Heath, the painter found shot to death in the bedroom of Mrs. J. M. Dodge, Saturday, was murdered.

He was slain with a revolver which belonged to Mrs. Dodge and the weapon had been taken from a drawer in the bureau standing in the front hall.

The man had been shot through the back, taken wholly unawares, as the direction of the shot and the wound show that the man was kneeling down busy at his work when he met his death.

Two other bullets were fired and these have been found imbedded in the room. From the three the authorities expect to tell the direction from whence the shots came.

Mrs. Dodge, the rich widow, who owns the house and who was, so far as known, the only person about the place when Heath was killed, is under arrest, guarded by two constables in her own home, the scene of the tragedy.

FIFTEEN SHOTS EXCHANGED

Policeman Has a Running Fight With Brace of Yeggmen

Lexington, Mass., Sept. 20.—Policemen from Lexington, Arlington and Waltham are scouring the roads in this vicinity in search of two yeggmen, who, surprised by Patrolman Maguire of the Lexington force while rifling a building, fired six shots at the officer, wounding him in the leg, in a running fight.

Fifteen shots in all were exchanged between the patrolman and the yeggmen, of which number Maguire fired nine and the two burglars six.

The fact that they did not respond to the last five shots of Officer Maguire is taken by Chief Franks to indicate that they were out of ammunition.

FEELS CERTAIN OF RAISING THE MAINE

O'Rourke Is Not Undertaking the Contract For Profit

Havana, Sept. 20.—After inspecting the wreck of the Maine, J. P. O'Rourke, president of the O'Rourke Engineering and Contracting company, said:

"I found the Maine to be in the condition I had anticipated. Had I, upon inspection, discovered three times as many difficulties as I suspected, I would tackle the job with just as much energy and confidence.

"This undertaking, as I have told President Taft, will not come off a profitable one for me, and I don't really want it solely for the sake of the business. It is my earnest wish to prove that my methods are the most practicable as well as to gratify a patriotic impulse."

ESCAPE FROM STATE FARM

Two Women Break Long Record by Fleeting in Prison Garb

Middleboro, Mass., Sept. 20.—Two women, Emma Parkman, 23, and Catherine McNulty, 41, both of Boston, escaped from the state farm at Fittent and no trace of them has been found. The police of all the surrounding cities and towns have been notified.

This is the first time in years, and the second time in the history of the farm, that women have escaped. The two women, both serving intermittent sentences for drunkenness, were at work in the kitchen. When no one was about they made their escape. Both were dressed in the regulation prison garb for women. Neither had money.

CHINAMEN IN FREIGHT CAR

Four Supposed to Have Been Smuggled Found in Holyoke

Holyoke, Mass., Sept. 20.—Four Chinamen, whom the authorities say were being smuggled into this country from Canada, were found in a freight car, well provided with food and opium, in the Boston and Maine freight yard in this city by the local police. The Chinamen were taken to the local station, where they are being held for United States officers.

The freight car in which the Chinamen were found was billed from Harnish, P. Q., and consigned to J. Drew of this city.

SHIPPING AND THE CANAL

President Taft is going to do his best to have the Panama Canal fortified.

The canal treaty with England specifies that it shall be open to the commerce of all nations on equal terms. We must take care that it is not used to provide means of war against us.

But what is our competence to do with the Panama canal? Where are the American merchant vessels to seek that passage between ocean and ocean? Are we digging the canal in order that others may use it?

The need of the canal is evident to everybody. We need it the most for commerce between our Atlantic and Pacific seaboard, a traffic which can be handled only by American vessels under our coastwise navigation laws. But how about the trade between the Atlantic states and the countries on the Pacific and Indian oceans and the trade between our Pacific states and the countries on the Atlantic ocean and the Mediterranean sea? Congress must do something for the revival of American shipping. President Taft needs the support of a Republican Congress to help him put such a policy into effect in the last half of his term.

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

External causes other than suicide were responsible for 47,135 of the deaths reported for the census registration area for 1909. It is stated in the census bureau's annual bulletin on mortality statistics for 1909, now in press, "The death rate declined from 9.2 to 9.7 per 100,000 estimated population. The total number of deaths from homicide, as reported for 1909, was 2,854, a decrease of 149 from the number compiled for 1908. Not all deaths from homicide are specified, so that the total number that actually occurred would be in excess of that compiled.

The fine record of President Taft and the last congress in doing things, in enacting more important progressive legislation during the last eighteen months than had been enacted before in years, is all the evidence that the voters of the country need of the intentions of the party under the leadership of Mr. Taft in the future. The New Hampshire Republicans at their state convention must emphasize this fact.

Special education for school children who are chronic stammerers and stutterers is to be introduced in Chicago public schools during the present school year. There are many children in the schools who are afflicted with speech defects. There are many more children who do not attend the public schools because their speech is so bad that the other children ridicule them said Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent. Speech defects in many cases arise from nervousness or exaggerated shyness and are found usually in the younger pupils. The plan has been approved by the board of education and will go into effect immediately.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

President Tuttle

It may be that President Taft will do more for the Boston and Maine railroad than President Tuttle has done or could do, but it is no more than justice to say that the resignation by Lucius Tuttle of the presidency of that road brings to a conclusion seventeen years of successful management of large enterprises, his conduct of the affairs of a great railroad system has been in the main satisfactory, meeting with popular approval. He has been more than a railroad man, he has been a good citizen, interested in the development of communities, broad minded and public spirited. Since coming to the head of the Boston and Maine, he has leased the Fitchburg, thus gaining western freight and passenger connection. He leased the Concord and Montreal and secured Canadian business. He bought the Portland and Rochester, secured control of the Maine Central and consolidated it with four competing lines, and made them feeders. He developed the dock system and the trans-oceanic trade of Boston and the B. and M. system controls 50 per cent of the resultant traffic. To have done all this, and much more that need not be enumerated, requires hard work and business intelligence of a high order. That he should seek rest in retirement, for a year at least, is not surprising, and that he will have what he says he wants, "a real vacation," is the wish of a host of friends that are not confined to the limits of the company, for he is recognized as a good citizen and an agreeable companion. He improved the railroad by his connection with it, and those who would further improve it have a good foundation to start from.—Dover Democrat.

Talk Versus Deeds

Candidate Carr is devoting some part of his campaign speeches to attacks upon our state highway system without suggesting any remedy for the faults he finds except a halt in the construction of further good roads.

Candidate Bass made the specific statement in his first declaration of principles, months ago, that he fa-

Cost of Living and the Simple Life

SPECIAL causes, such as high tariffs, agricultural readjustment, higher wages, and increasing expenditures of the rich, have operated to raise prices. The resultant seems to be the outcome of special forces on the goods side of the price-ratio working to raise the prices of goods, more than inventions and progress in the arts have been able to depress them. In this respect the latter differs from the earlier period.

Lastly, it must be admitted that, aside from the higher prices of many staple articles, our standard of living has changed with the growing wealth of the country. Each family now wishes more expensive food, better clothes, more costly millinery, more pictures and books and those of a higher price, more bicycles and automobiles, more horseback riding, more traveling, stays at higher priced hotels, passage on more expensive steamers, than formerly—all to keep up in the procession with the successful rich, who are increasing enormously in numbers. Every one expects, as a matter of course, to buy fruits and vegetables out of season—such as a very short time ago were considered within the reach of only the largest purses. Our kitchen economy is quite too wasteful; we throw away fats and buy lard to take their place.

May it not be the psychological hour to call for the creation of a new aristocracy of the simple life, of those who care for the reality and not for the shadow, for the true inward pleasures of the mind rather than for the external, evanescent show? May it not be high time to create a free Masary of those who do not ask how much one has, nor how much one knows, but what one is? Gold, in the sense of riches, may be the root of all evil; but gold, in the sense of a standard of prices, cannot be the sole root of the evil in our increased cost of living.

Increased automobile license rates in proportion to horse power, the money to be spent on the roads.

Candidate Carr says in regard to roads, "We should learn how to best construct them, and should learn the probable cost of their maintenance before plunging ahead and spending the rest of the money appropriated under the law."

Candidate Bass, since his nomination, has been making personal investigation of these questions in those sections of the state where the most money has been spent in highway improvement, where the roads are most used, where the benefits and the defects of the present system are most in evidence.

Candidate Carr is bidding for votes with glittering generalities and no definite program that might lose him the vote of some automobile owner.

Candidate Bass has made one definite proposition, that the automobiles should pay their just share of the cost of the roads they use, and he will make others as investigation and consideration make him sure of his ground.

It is the old story of words vs. deeds.—Concord Monitor.

Building for Foreign Navies

That foreign Governments do not share the much too common, and altogether unjustified distrust of the American shipbuilder is being made more evident every day. Argentina looked the whole world over and then decided to have her two great dreadnoughts built in the United States; China is sending her greatest naval expert "to close a deal" for a whole fleet; Chile, even though she is rather bound to England, is not yet certain that she will not give the American builder an opportunity to bid on the proposed additions to her fleet. In not a single instance has the fear been expressed that the ship yards of the United States are incapable of turning out the finest kind of a product. Muckrakers and defamers in general will realize sooner or later that ranking officers know where of they speak when they say that for the American ship, design and construction considered, has no superior.

The news that China is coming here for her "new navy" is particularly significant. The Oriental nation has ever been conservative in military matters. Her war prestige received a tremendous blow in the conflict with Japan; it is only lately that she has shown signs of recuperation. She sincerely intends now to revive her naval force. She plans to build modern ships and equip them with modern guns. That she looks to America for aid in this work of reconstruction must be a considerable success to those who believe in the "goodness of all things United States."—Boston Transcript.

MILITIA AT CONCORD

State Encampment is in Progress
There This Week

Concord, Sept. 20.—The New Hampshire national guard except the coast artillery, went into camp here Monday for a week. The infantry companies came by special train and, together with Companies C and E of this city, marched over to camp at 10 o'clock in the morning. Colonel Paul F. Babidge of Keene is in command. The other field officers are Lieutenant Colonel H. B. Roby and Majora Healey, Sullivan, Cole and Webber.

Inspector General William Sullivan and regular army officers assigned to the encampment reviewed the procession as it passed the state house arch, and later went to the grounds by automobile.

Members of Gov. Quinn's staff were at headquarters Monday, but the governor made his formal entry until this morning, when he was escorted to the grounds by the Peterboro cavalry. This troop and the Manchester battery arrived Monday afternoon.

The men do not seem overjoyed at the weather which greeted them, with a storm promised. In past years the encampment has been held in June. Owing to a new state law the close of the fiscal year was changed, making the military appropriation for this year unavailable until after Sept. 1.

Captain Louis H. Bush, 5th U. S. infantry, has arrived at headquarters. He is the first to report of the five regular army officers who have been assigned by the war department for inspection duty. The others are Maj. William W. Reno, medical department; Captain John J. Ryan of the cavalry; Capt. Brooks Payne of the artillery and First Lieutenant William A. Bash of the signal corps.

ROOSEVELT "ANALYZED"

Eugene Debs Regards Him as an
"Arch Hypocrite"

Chicago, Sept. 20.—"I have been trying to analyze the case of former President Roosevelt, who seems to be cutting quite a figure in this country now," said Eugene V. Debs at a social meeting at Riverview park. "What Roosevelt is trying to do I can't imagine. During his political career Roosevelt was the implacable foe of the man who toils. He fought an attempt to observe the eight-hour law in New York and has done all he could to give labor leaders the worst of it."

"He is a political mountebank. He is regarded almost as a deity. Thousands upon thousands of people through their stupidity look upon him as a deliverer and savior. He is always and everywhere for Roosevelt. When he spoke at Cranston, the scene of John Brown's heroic struggle, did he mention the name of Brown? No, he talked about Roosevelt. Roosevelt is an arch hypocrite. He goes about the country preaching the doctrine of publicity for campaign funds, but his expenses were contributed by ten great trusts. He never had a generous impulse or an unselfish thought."

MRS. KIRK D. PIERCE

Hillsboro, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Mary A. Pierce, wife of Kirk D. Pierce, nephew of the late ex-President Franklin Pierce, died at her home at the lower village Sunday after a long illness of tuberculosis. Mrs. Pierce was the daughter of Dennis and Helen (Leary) Collins and was born in Hillsboro, N. Y. 70 years ago. Upon her marriage to Mr. Pierce she came to this town to live and has resided here for 31 years. Besides her husband, she leaves two daughters, Susie M. and Mary K. Pierce.

NEW CASTLE NEWS

Hotel Wentworth Closed for the Season

Summer People Leaving the Island
Town Until Next Year

New Castle, Sept. 20.

Swiftly the summer sojourners are folding their tents like Arabs and as silently stealing away from the island town. The advent of September marked the formal decline and fall of this fascinating summer resort season of '10. Labor day has come to sort of a marker on the calendars, separating pleasure at the seaside from duties that beckon homeward. Yes, the summer king is dead, but the autumn monarch reigns none the less supreme and still more brilliantly, for his crown is of the goldenrod and his mantle the royal purple of the asters, and the pretty tints of sunset are in the forests, and all over his kingdom glows a mellow sunshine tempered by the cool breezes of which summer knows not.

The beautiful Wentworth hotel closed on Monday, after the most successful season in its history. It has been overflowing with guests and its popularity as the mecca for auto sojourners represents the height of summer elegance. The Wentworth is, as it should be, synonymous with all that is desirable in delightful summer existence.

Mr. Clifford Day, who has been the guest of Mrs. George Browne, has returned to his home in Plainfield, N. J.

Mrs. William Redden after a brief visit with Mrs. Clarence M. White, has returned to Derry, N. H.

Mr. William Preble and family who have been passing the summer at the Osprey cottage have returned to their home in Everett.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Chapman of Cambridge, are visiting Mrs. Dorothy Hayward and family.

Mrs. John V. Rensselaer, who has been sojourning at the Sea Breeze, has returned to her home in Washington.

Mr. George Taylor, who has been passing a two weeks' sojourn with his family at the Fellows cottage, has returned to his duties in Westfield, N. J.

Mrs. Lottie White, who has been visiting her parents, has returned to her home in Bangor.

Miss Mary Preble, after a visit with her mother, has returned to her duties in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Melvin, who have been passing their vacation in town, have returned to their home in Boston.

Mrs. Mae White Cuckley, after a brief visit with her parents, has returned to Portland.

Mrs. Thomas Mather, who has been the guest of her son, Lieut. Mather, has returned to her home in Lowell.

Every day witnesses the advent of some returning son or daughter. All who haven't been home are coming before another moon. The island town doesn't have to be up an Old illoine Day to get the home.

PORTSMOUTH MAN APPOINTED

Richard E. Hannaford Lieutenant
Colonel in Knights of Pythias

Laconia, Sept. 20.—On Wednesday and Thursday of next week, the New Hampshire brigade, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias will be in camp at The Weirs.

General orders have just been issued by Gen. Dana F. Fellows of Franklin.

Richard E. Hannaford of Portsmouth has been commissioned lieutenant colonel, first regiment and will be in command under Col. Fred W. Sanborn.

The routine of duty for each of the three days calls for much activity and is strictly along the lines of military encampments. It is directed that the observance of the rules of salutation, discipline and military courtesy shall be insisted upon.

The camp will be located on the hill back of the hotel Weirs on the grounds of Hotel Winnecoite. It will be lighted by electricity and running water will be provided. Meals will be provided at the hotels and restaurants.

MEET TODAY IN CONCORD

State Federation of Labor in Session
There for Three Days

The New Hampshire state federation of labor begins a three days' session at Concord today. It is said that this annual gathering will consider many important matters concerning labor and promises to be the largest assemblage of labor leaders held in recent years.

Charles Lewis of the Central board of this city, is representing the organizations of Portsmouth at the meet.

PATRIARCHS GOING TO MANCHESTER

WARSHIPS FOR ENGLAND

Battleship Greater Than Orion and 27,000 Ton Cruiser Planned

London, Sept. 20.—It is announced the English government will lay down in royal dock yards this year a battleship and cruiser, each of great size and enormous power. The battleship will be more formidable than even the Orion, and will have turbine engines of 30,000 horse power, which in 3000 in excess of the Orion. The new cruiser probably will displace about 26,000 to 27,000 tons, and will carry the new monster 13.5 gun of which so much has been predicted if it ever gets in action.

Thieves Made a Visit to a Potato Patch

Eliot People Attending Supreme Court at Alfred

Eliot, Me., Sept. 20.
Thieves visited Herbert Nelson's potato patch some time during Monday night. The indications this morning were that they took about a peck and a half of the tubers. The questions are: "Who were they?" "Were they frightened away?"

THE WONDERER

I wonder if every telephone subscriber in this city can honestly say that they are completely carried away with the summer service of 1910?

I wonder when the towns of Newington and New Castle will get the electric car lines?

I wonder just what the official population figures are for Portsmouth?

I wonder if the new degree team that is to hand out the goods to new members of the Foresters won't be all that is necessary?

I wonder how many changes have been made in the original plans of the alterations at the Old High School?

I wonder if the idea of a master at arms from the U. S. S. Tennessee doing police duty in this city every night is not the right thing?

I wonder who is the next member of the A. A. club to be corraled by Cupid?

I wonder what those baseball fiends will do when the evening scores fail to appear on the bulletin on Congress street?

I wonder if it would not be the real thing to hurry along more quizz wall at the navy yard?

I wonder why those quizz tasters at the Jones Bottling Works cannot get a challenge in throwing the rings?

I wonder if the vote of York county in the Maine election did not save the ship from total disaster?

I wonder where the license inspectors have been camping lately?

I wonder if the young Emmet Associates will take up that football challenge of the Kildare Athletic club?

I wonder why the collier Lebanon on the list for Portsmouth as her home port was given to Norfolk yard?

I wonder if the members of the First company Coast Artillery of this city, are not throwing out their chest a little since they carried off the honors at New Castle?

I wonder if the police station, especially the cell rooms in the old high school building, will be much of an improvement over the old coop?

I wonder why the veteran firemen don't have indoor playthings during the winter season?

I wonder who threw the harpoon at the jail dog?

I wonder if Portsmouth has not the big end of the county candidates on the ticket for November election?

I wonder if there was not a rush for the overcoat and sweater on Friday?

I wonder when those long talked of improvements for the street leading to the Kittery ferry landing will come to pass?

I wonder what will be the real outcome of the question of tolls on the Dover Point and Kittery bridges?

I wonder if the Dover and York Beach branches of the Boston and Maine railroad will ever be electrified?

I wonder if that fine of $101.40 in police court on Monday for Sunday gambling was really worth the game?

SENATOR LODGE COLLAPSES

Suffers from Faintness After Making a Speech

Boston, Sept. 20.—The strain of his campaign is telling upon the health of Senator Cabot Lodge. It is learned that at a reception in Norwood Saturday Mr. Lodge, after making his speech, collapsed and fainted.

Senator Lodge had just finished his speech when he became aware of an extreme weakness. He had just enough strength to leave the piazza and enter the dining room of the Cushing House when he collapsed. A doctor was hurriedly sent for but by this time the senator has recovered after stimulants had been used. It is not the first attack of this kind that Senator Lodge has had, and there is much doubt as to whether he will be able to keep all of his engagements in the coming campaign.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THE youth who announces that he intends becoming famous usually compromises by becoming ridiculous.

The man who can believe his own romances has a mortgage on happiness.

Many a woman has joined the suffragettes to offset her husband's lodge activities.

Silence is golden, but it is noticeable that most of us are shy on the yellow metal.

No man is a hero to his valet, but some women are glances off fashion to their maids.

Uneasy lies the head that has just been to the hairdresser.

The sad thing about an old fool is that he has so little time to recover from his folly.

Be good and don't tell everybody about it.

It is usually the mornings after that life seems such an empty dream.

If we could only forget the past and arrange the future to suit ourselves the present were paradise enough.

His Remedy.

"Why do you talk so much?"

"For self protection."

"For self protection?"

"Yes."

"But I don't see how that protects you. I should think you'd be in danger of some crank trying to shut you up."

"Not in the least. And when I am talking I can't hear the rest of you idiots yawning all round me."

Growing Sophisticated.

"How did your husband behave when you were calling?" asked her dearest friend when they had settled down for a confidential chat.

"Oh, very nicely," replied the energetic husband trainer. "I was quite proud of him. The lady showed us through her nice new home, and he didn't even ask what the bathtub was for."

Variety.

Tell me not in mournful numbers
Life is but an empty dream.
Have a nightmare on cucumbers
And a pint of store ice cream.

Their Exercise.

"Women don't take enough exercise."

"Oh, pshaw!"

"But they don't."

"They do too."

"I'd like to know what they do."

"Aren't they always jumping at conclusions?"

Something in Its Favor.

"I don't think much of astronomy."

"Why not?"

"The heavenly bodies are too far away to interest me."

"I can tell you one thing."

"What's that?"

"There are no flies on the sun."

Primitive.

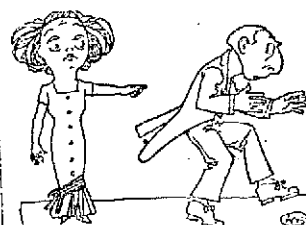

"What are you going to be when you grow up, Johnny?"

"A crazy man."

"Why a crazy man?"

"'Cause everybody is scared of a crazy man."

Please Be Obliging.

"Can I do anything for you?"
"Do you really want to?"
"Indeed I do. I have been trying for the last month to do something that would please you."
"All right, you may."
"Thanks awfully. What is it?"
"Go away and give me a chance to forget you."

The Useful Lesson.

We make life's journey picking up Experience for later use. Extraneous fragments lying loose. Some things we very early learn. And some it takes us long to win. About the latest for advice on The foolishness of butting in.

It seems a little thing to do To set a man and brother right. To point the error of his way And lend him gently to the light. He would be grateful for the aid Forever after, you'd suppose. But you are lucky to escape Without a bruised and battered nose.

Suppose you see a man and wife Aligned in a fierce, heartrending fight. A strong temptation you may feel To go and try to set them right. Although for mercy he may cry. Though for assistance she may shout. Congratulate yourself when you Can pass and let them scrap it out.

That little business of your own Is quite enough for you to mind. To other folk's affairs you can Afford to be both deaf and blind. Your head from learning how to spin. So jog along your narrow track And do not be a butter in.

Arthur Dunlap, 17 School street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I suffered from kidney disease. I thought I believe by the hardships I endured in the army, that years ago my kidneys became weak and there was a constant pain in the small of my back that made me miserable. It was difficult for me to get about and if I stooped or moved suddenly, sharp pains darted through my back. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a cure for such troubles, I decided to try them and procured a box at Phillips' drug store. After using about half the contents, I could see an improvement and almost before I realized it, the pains in my back had ceased. I have had no trouble to speak of from my kidneys since. Occasionally when I have taken a slight cold or overworked, my back has become weak, but at such times a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have always benefited me."

YOUNG McLANE IS DEAD

OPERATION FAILED TO SAVE LIFE OF EX-GOVERNOR'S SON.

Portsmouth, Sept. 20.—Charles M. McLane, son of ex-Gov. John McLane of New Hampshire, died at the Massachusetts general hospital at 5 this morning from injuries said to have been received in a fall from a revolving platform at Revere beach, as stated by the young man's father.
The young man was rushed to the hospital Sunday afternoon about 5 from Arlington in a motor car, in which were Dr. Harold A. Webb, Chief of Police Thomas O. D. Cragin, Charles M. McLane, a brother, and Miss Ellingworth of 1222 Massachusetts avenue.
About 5 o'clock the automobile, driven by Charles McLane, stopped in front of the Arlington police station and Chief Upphart was asked for assistance, as Charles McLane was apparently in a very bad way. Dr. Webb was called and upon hurried examination found the young man was suffering from some injury to his head and was fast sinking and he ordered his removal to the hospital.
The young man, who by this time was unconscious, was placed across the lap of Dr. Webb and Chief Upphart and the trip begun. Upon arrival at the hospital the young man was still living, but was in a serious condition.
The young man had been visiting Edward Ellingworth at his home at 1222 Commonwealth avenue and Saturday afternoon the two made a trip to Revere beach and took in the attractions. While riding on a revolving platform McLane was thrown off, striking on his head. He was dazed for a time and examined by physicians who stated that he was all right.
The two returned to the Ellingworth home and Sunday afternoon McLane, not feeling well, signified his desire to return to his father's home at Milford, N. H., and his brother, accompanied by Miss Ellingworth, started with him. All went well until Arlington Center was reached and suddenly young McLane was seized with convulsions and soon lapsed into unconsciousness.
The party had gone a short way down Mystic street when the condition of the young man was discovered and then the machine was run back to the police station.

WILL FURNISH THE WATER
NEW CASTLE MAY HAVE WATER WORKS BY ANOTHER SEASON—PORTSMOUTH WILL FURNISH WATER AND STOCK COMPANY LAY THE MAINS.

The Board of Public Works have given the selectmen of New Castle their answer on the water proposition. It is to the effect that the board will supply the town of New Castle with water at regular meter rates, but will not lay the mains and look to the upkeep of the lines. The selectmen wanted the board to lay a main through the town from the present main that supplies Fort Constitution to the third New Castle bridge, and sell the water to subscribers and the town for hydrant and fire purposes.
The town would not guarantee any long term of hydrant rental or any definite number of subscribers, so that the board would not consider this proposition. They, however, offered to furnish the town with water in any amount they desired and suggested that they do the work themselves.

A movement is now on foot in the town to form a company and lay the mains and issue stock among the residents to pay for it, the town to pay for hydrant rentals, etc. This plan is meeting with good results and it is hoped that the work can be arranged to be done in the early spring. The town needs the water and it would mean a good boom to the summer resort business.

ENDS DYSPEPSIA IN FEW MINUTES

Heartburn, Gas, and all Stomach Misery Vanishes

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to stomach trouble knew the harmless preparation will digest five minutes contained in Diapiesin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the surest, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors from the breath.
Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on each 50 cent case of Pope's Diapiesin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Dizziness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.
If your Stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest, or your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50 cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.
Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapiesin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

GOVERNOR QUINBY
Will Be One of Four Governors at the Brockton Fair
Brockton, Sept. 20.—Four governors have accepted invitations to be present at the Brockton fair governor's day, Friday, Oct. 7, the latest acceptances being from Gov. Quinby of New Hampshire and Gov. Weeks of Connecticut. Gov. Prouty of Vermont and Gov. Draper of Massachusetts had previously accepted invitations. Gov. Quinby will be accompanied by members of his staff. Ex-Gov. William L. Douglas has also accepted an invitation.

NAVAL MOVEMENTS
Washington, Sept. 20.—The following movements of "naval vessels" are being followed:
The Louisiana, Nebraska, Virginia, Minnesota and Caesar have arrived at the southern drill grounds, the Tacoma at Bluefields and the Wheeling and Petrel at Aden.
The Glacier has sailed from Callao for Chimbote, the Nanshan from Shanghai for Hongkong, the Dixie from Norfolk for Boston, and the Yorktown from Panama for Buenaventura, Colombia.

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

An arrest has been made in the bicycle larceny case and it will be heard in police court on Wednesday.

HOTEL ELDRIDGE.

It Was a Private House Mistaken For a Hotel.

By GERALD JENNINGS.
[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]
Fordham drove his automobile into a cottage settlement by the sea and, slowing up beside a fisherman peddling the product of his nets, asked to be directed to the best house in the place. The fisherman, who was not overburdened with brains, failing to understand that the tourist was looking for a hotel, directed him to the finest summer cottage.
"What's the name?" asked the traveler.
"Eldridge."
"Thank you very much."
The automobile was started again, chug-chugged to an entrance where the house in question stood and stopped at the front porch. A man in a white flannel suit sat on a wicker chair fanning himself.
"Got a garage?" asked Fordham.
"Yes, one in the rear," replied the man, looking hard at the questioner.
"Well, send a man to take my machine in."
The man stared at Fordham with an expression bordering between surprise and amusement. Then he said:

"Our auto man is out just now, sir. I would take it in for you, but I don't know anything about autos."
"All right; I'll do it myself."
Fordham steered his machine into the garage. When he returned the man whom he supposed to be the landlord had disappeared. Fordham stalled into the house.

"Toney," he remarked to himself, "Coolest hotel I've been in in a month of Sundays. Good enough for a private house."
The owner, Edward Eldridge, was upstairs, where the members of a house party he was entertaining were getting ready for dinner. He was passing the word that there was a man below who had mistaken the house for a hotel and proposed that they have some fun out of it. Most of them were dressed for dinner, and a consultation took place in the upper hall. Louise Vincent, who was always ready for mischief, insisted on dressing herself as a maid and waiting on the stranger at dinner.

Soon after this one by one the guests went downstairs, all in dinner dress. One of them, Ben Howland, was taken "flat" by finding in Fordham an acquaintance.
"Hello, Howland!" exclaimed the latter.
"You here?"
"Glad to see you old man," replied Howland, standing himself after his surprise.
"Well, place this," rejoined Fordham. "I see every one is in dinner dress. Luckily I've got a suit in my traveling wardrobe. I'll get it out."
At that moment Eldridge entered the room.

"Landlord," said Howland, "this is my friend Mr. Fordham. Mr. Fordham is a bang up good fellow, and I wish you to treat him well. He has enough to pay for what he gets and wants the best."
The landlord bowed, washing his hands in imaginary water, and asked the new-guest if there was any special dish he would like for dinner. Fordham said he wished for plenty of shellfish while he remained and would like to be shown to his room at once.

When Fordham came down to dinner he was surprised to see the landlord sitting at the head of the table in evening dress. Being seated himself by Howland, he whispered:
"I see you have the landlord with you."
"That's the latest wrinkle in these small swell hotels."
"You don't mean it. I've never seen it before."
There was plenty of chat among the guests of the house, and Fordham was introduced to them all. Every one seemed to be on as good terms with the host as with the rest of the party, but he noticed that Eldridge, as the guests called him, might have passed anywhere for a gentleman. Fordham, called in the waitress who seemed to have his wants in charge and, slipping a tip into her hand, asked her to bring him a wine card. The landlord, hearing the order, remarked:

"We don't have wine cards at the Eldridge House, Mr. Fordham. We can give you champagne, claret and sauterne."
"I would like a quart of champagne," replied Fordham.
In a few minutes the waitress brought the wine, and Mr. Fordham, being very much pleased with the company, told her to fill the glass of every guest and that of the landlord. When all were primed Eldridge raised his glass to his lips and, bowing to Fordham, said:
"Welcome to Hotel Eldridge. May you remain long. I'll see that you get the best of everything."
When the first bottle of wine had been emptied the maid brought another. Fordham didn't order it, and when the landlord pledged him again, saying that he thought he would like it, Fordham fancied there had been some mistake. However, money being no object to him, he ordered still another bottle. What astonished him was that none of the other guests followed his example. Finally the host ordered a bottle, saying:
"Mr. Fordham, you're the only guest I have who knows how to spend his money like a gentleman. This is on the house."

Fordham, who expected to hear the host resentful, was surprised at a burst of laughter. Eldridge scowled, and the others checked their mirth. Fordham, thinking that there was some joke of which he was ignorant connected with the wine, asked what it was. He was told that the Hotel Eldridge was a temperance house and that he had broken the rule in ordering the wine. This satisfied him.

After dinner a small motorboat was brought up to a pier, and the guests of the hotel invited Fordham to have a ride with them. The landlord came aboard, but after his presence at the dinner this did not surprise Fordham. When the maid who had waited on him got aboard he supposed she was to go to serve refreshments. But the landlord introduced him to her, saying, "You are expected, Mr. Fordham, to devote yourself to Miss Vincent for the evening."

The maid, unabashed, took a seat beside Fordham, who looked at every member of the party successively, especially the ladies, to know if there would be anything amiss in his entertaining a maid. But they were all chatting with Miss Vincent familiarly, some of them calling her "Lou," and since Fordham had had an eye on her during the dinner he was not slow in availing himself of the privilege that had been extended to him.

"For heaven's sake, Howland," said Fordham after the party had gone ashore and were separating for the night, "what sort of hotel do you call this anyway?"
"I'll tell you. Eldridge is a man with a whim. He is above the station of a landlord. Indeed, he's very scholarly. He has a theory that one person is as good as another, that he doesn't demean himself by keeping a hotel and that his servants are entitled to hobnob with his guests so long as they behave themselves. You being the last arrival, the maid was assigned to you for the boat ride."

Fordham remained at the Hotel Eldridge several days, during which the conspirators kept him in ignorance of the fact that he was in a private house. Miss Vincent, who thought nothing of bringing two or three men to her feet during a season, made it her special object to snare him. The others were watching the process of his enthrallment, and one evening when the fruit was ripe for plucking she wept that she was only a poor servant girl while he was a fine gentleman. Fordham swore he would have her if she were a scullion.

Now, it happened the next morning that Fordham was summoned home. With regret he called for his bill, at the same time ordering his auto to be brought around to the front door. The landlord told him that he would bring his bill into the drawing room, where the other guests were waiting to bid him adieu. Fordham was saying good-bys when Eldridge brought in the bill. The former looked at the footing in astonishment. It was $10,000. Then he glanced at the items:

To three bottles of champagne at $2.00 each	$6.00
To kissing maid four times at $1.00 each	4.00
Total	$10.00

When the house party saw the expression on Fordham's face their pent-up mirth broke its bounds. Fordham looked at them with such a puzzled, woe-begone expression that Mr. Eldridge stopped forward and explained that, taking advantage of his mistaking a private summer cottage for a hotel, they had perpetrated a joke upon him.

Fordham took out a pocket check book and wrote a check for the amount of the bill, saying at the same time that the landlord might apply it to charity if he did not wish to accept it. But Eldridge tore it up. When Fordham declared that he would forgive them on one condition—that the entire party agree to visit him in his own cottage.
There was no want of alacrity in accepting the invitation. Fordham had fulfilled Howland's promise that he was a bang up good fellow and had stood the joke that had been perpetrated upon him good naturedly. So the next week the guests of Hotel Eldridge reassembled at Hotel Fordham.
Fordham says that the joke, after all, was on Eldridge, who wanted Miss Vincent. At the close of the second house party Fordham carried her off himself.

AN ORIENTAL GARDEN.
It Is Not Planted With Flowers, and It Has No Lawns.
A garden does not necessarily mean a collection of flowers arranged more or less symmetrically, with spaces of lawn, shelter of trees and paths hither and thither. There have been gardens that, beyond a terra cotta jar or two holding a rosebush or a flowering almond, have had no green thing within their gates.
I know of an oriental garden in Fez where white garmented Moors come in the cool of the evening to sit and listen to ancient stories that they know by heart, or to music that was old when the pyramids were new, or perhaps to look at a dancing girl or two taking soft steps while they smoke their nargiles, yet that garden, is nothing more than a series of arches upholding walls beyond walls, topped a faint, mysterious yellow that is not yellow, but white, and yet not white, but rose. In the middle is a pool of water in a stone basin that looks blue because of the intense sky overhead and that shimmer with gold in reflections from the walls. In the corner stands a mighty jar full of strange scarlet blossoms, and rugs of deep color and intricate pattern lie on the sun warmed flags. There is always the fairy music of dripping water, and wonderful stand-ows move among the arches.
This place is a garden for all that it is so builded of man. The word court will not do for it—Century Magazine.

FIGHTING FATIGUE.
Jacking Up the Tired System Without Using Stimulants.
Efforts to keep at work are continued in spite of fatigue the quality of the work is poor and the exhaustion inordinate. Students constantly make this error and do all sorts of things to keep awake to burn the midnight oil when it they would go to bed and rest they could accomplish far more to half the time in the morning with little or no fatigue.
Yet there are times when sleepiness and fatigue must be overcome without resort to stimulants which injure the judgment. The tired physician must have a critical case, for instance, must have his wits about him, and it will aid him vastly to go to an open window every fifteen or thirty minutes to take a dozen or two deep inspirations of cold air. His exhaustion in the end will be great, but he can make it up later.
As a matter of fact, surgeons and others whose work requires the keenest perceptions instinctively choose the early morning for their best efforts, reserving the afternoon for "low pressure" tasks or recreation. That is, it is far better to so live that we do not need the stimulus of these extraordinary methods of respiration—American Medicine.

A Dime Better Than Two Nickels.
A professional panhandler approached a man crossing City Hall park and demanded a nickel, which the man gave naturally handed out, saying, "I suppose that goes for a glass of beer."
"Surest thing you know," replied the panhandler unflinchingly, "And, by the way, while we are on the subject, I have now in my possession two nickels. Would you mind giving me a ten cent piece for them?"
"I will on one condition," said the man, whose curiosity was aroused. "What's the answer?"
"Well, you see, it's this way. I explained the panhandler. 'If I have a dime I go into a saloon and ask for beer. I have a nickel comeback, which enables me to nibble over to the free lunch counter and fill up. Maybe you don't realize that getting change over the bar gives a man a certain tone that doesn't belong to him if he just coughs up a nickel.'—New York Sun.

Rice in the Orient.
Rice is "wet," that grown for the most part in flooded land, or "dry," that raised on uplands. Its growth in those regions where civilization has penetrated least is pathetic. Parts of the east are still covered with virgin forest of tall trees. Underneath all is dark in heavy shade. Creepers twine up hundreds of feet and are all topped off with indescribable orchids, all hunting for air and sunshine. In the thick wood a suitable spot is chosen, for rice they must have or starve. Undergrowth is cut out and staked and hedged around to make a fence for the little rice farm—Exchange.

Foxglove.
In some places in England the foxglove is regarded with awe as a "witches' flower," the peasants saying that the witches use the bells of the blossoms as chimbles. In most parts, however, the "wee sma' folk that bode us ill" are the beings that "sweetly nestle in the foxglove bells," and in Ireland the plant is called the fairy cap.

A Rival.
"Why do you always say, 'As scarce as hen's teeth?'"
"Because they are about the scarcest things in the world."
"More scarce than men who enjoy hearing about the cleverness of other people's babies?"—Chicago Record-Herald.
Women's Lefts.
Miss Bixley—So you have given up advocating woman's rights?
Miss Passee—Yes; I now go in for women's lefts.
"Women's lefts? What's that?"
"Widowers."

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT HAVE A MEETING

Conference at New Haven and It Is Supposed New York Politics
the Subject.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 20.—President Taft and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt had an important conference here Monday afternoon presumably on the New York political situation. The conference was arranged at the request of Mr. Roosevelt, who came here from Oyster Bay by automobile.

Lloyd C. Griscom, president of the New York County Republican Committee, and Otto T. Barnard, the Republican candidate for mayor of New York city last fall, also took part in the conference. The meeting was arranged on Saturday last, when Secretary Norton was visiting his family. Mr. Griscom and Mr. Barnard telephoned Sec. Norton and asked that an arrangement be made by which Col. Roosevelt might hold a conference with the President during his New Haven visit. This the President, it is said, was glad to do. He said that he expected to have luncheon as usual with President Arthur T. Hadley after the Yale Corporation meeting this morning. President Hadley was advised of this and accordingly invited the President, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Griscom, Mr. Barnard and Secretary Norton to take luncheon together. President Hadley's house having been dismantled during the summer holidays, the luncheon was arranged at the home of Henry C. White, a neighbor and friend of President Hadley. When asked on Monday to state the subject of the conference, Secretary Norton said he knew nothing about it, except that an arrangement had been made for the meeting in response to a request from Mr. Griscom. The latter presumably was acting as the representative of Colonel Roosevelt. Just what development in the New York situation caused the request for a conference with the President at this time could only be conjectured here today. Since the Sherman episode and his statement of his every action in that matter, President Taft has been disposed to keep entirely out of the New York situation. He had been very reluctantly drawn into it in the first place, and after making his position clear during the entanglement which followed the turnover of Col. Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the state committee, he felt he could leave the handling of the state's affairs to the leaders in the state, including Col. Roosevelt. At the conclusion of the conference none of those present would make any statement.

RIFLE MATCHES FOR MARINES
Six Teams to Compete in Three Events at the Wakefield Range, on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rifle matches for the teams of the United States Marine Corps stationed in Boston, Brooklyn, N. Y., Portsmouth, N. H., and Newport, R. I., a new feature this year, will be held at the Bay State rifle range at Wakefield on Tuesday and Wednesday. There will be three events—a match between the barracks teams from Brooklyn and Newport, and matches for the barracks and prison teams of Boston and of Portsmouth. The prison teams are made up of the marines who do duty at the naval prison. There will be cash prizes in each shoot and a trophy by the Day State Rifle Association for the team making the highest score.

The Fifth Regiment, M. V. M., is holding its annual tournament at Wakefield today and Sixth Regiment championship shoot comes a week from yesterday, Sept. 26.

STATE HOUSE HALF PAID FOR WITHOUT BOND ISSUE—AUDITOR'S STATEMENT OF STATE'S FINANCES.

Concord, Sept. 20.—A statement of the receipts and disbursements of the state treasury department for the year ending Sept. 1, 1910, issued by Judge William B. Fellows, state auditor, shows the state to be in a splendid condition financially.

Not only has there been a reduction in the debt of the state during the year of $123,591.85, but there has been paid on the new state house the sum of $327,009.89 from the ordinary revenues, thus doing away with the necessity of a bond issue authorized by the legislature to meet the cost of the building.

The sum of $371,756.53 has been paid for highway construction, besides meeting the costs of other improvements authorized at the last session, in addition to paying the ordinary expenses of running the commonwealth, amounting to $694,692.40.

The statement of Auditor Fellows shows the following:

Cash on hand Sept. 1,	1910,	$ 51,513.1

WHEN THE TIDE IS LOW.

Some time at eve when the tide is low
I shall slip my moorings and sail away,
With no response to a friendly hail
Of kindred craft in a busy bay.
In the silent hush of the twilight pale
When the night stoops down to embrace the day,
And the voices faint in the waters flow,
I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

Through purple shadows that darkly trail
O'er the ebbing tide of the unknown seas,
I shall fare me away with a dip of sail,
And a ripple of waters to tell the tale
Of a lonely voyage sailing away
To mystic isles at anchor lay
The craft of those who have sailed before,
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown shore.

A few who have watched me sail away,
Will miss my craft from the busy bay,
Some friendly barks that were anchored near,
Some loving souls that my heart held dear,
In silent sorrow will drop a tear,
But I shall have peacefully furled my sail,
In moorings sheltered from storm and gale,
And greeted the friends who have sailed before
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown shore.

EIGHT INJURED IN A CAR ACCIDENT

CAR CRASHES INTO TELEPHONE POLE AND DOES GREAT DAMAGE.

Boston, Sept. 20.—Early Monday morning an inward-bound electric car from Arlington Heights to Sullivan square was in collision with a heavy pole bearing many wires on Broadway, West Somerville, at the entrance to the Chardon Hill car barn. Eight of the 12 passengers in the car were injured quite severely and the others badly shaken up.

The injured.
DANIEL I. CLIFFORD, 115 Westminster avenue, Arlington, badly cut about the head.

JAMES G. PATTEE, corner Bartlett avenue and Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, multiple contusions, and probable internal injuries.

HERBERT H. COOK, 3 Russell terrace, Arlington, head bruises.

FRED VALENTINE, 926 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, injuries to his back.

DANIEL GAINS, 28 Winter street, Arlington, injuries to the back.

JAMES S. DONOHUE, 87 Irving street, West Somerville, left leg bruised, arm wrenched and back injured. Unknown man, treated by Mrs. J. G. Colquhoun, matron at the Somerville city home, for cuts on the right ear.

Unknown man, treated by Mrs. Colquhoun for a lacerated hand at the city home.

The rear end of the car was practically demolished. The bonnet or the upper part of the rear right-hand end door was smashed and five windows were shattered.

The accident occurred at a spot where two similar ones have happened within the past 15 months. A little more than a year ago a car bound into the stables jumped the rails, overturned a heavy telephone pole and wrecked a small lunch room standing just off the sidewalk. Early this spring an inward-bound car left the rails at that point and crashed into the pole. Neither was as serious as the one on Monday.

The accident Monday happened at about 6.05. The front trucks of the heavy car passed safely over the switch at the entrance to the car barn but in some unexplainable manner the rear trucks took the switch and dragged the back of the car with a tremendous impact against the pole. The crash of the glass from the broken windows was heard some distance.

For a few moments the opening of any of the four doors of the car was prevented. Employees in the car stables attracted by the noise of the crash ran to the scene and assisted the imprisoned conductor and motor-man of the car to force open the doors.

None of the injured passengers was so seriously hurt as to require any assistance to leave the car.

There was considerable excitement for a moment.

Dr. H. Stewart Nolan of Teale square and Dr. Ernest Pillsbury of Curtis street, were summoned. Dr. Nolan accompanied Jas. G. Pattee, living at the corner of Bartlett and Massachusetts avenues, Arlington, and Herbert H. Cook of 3 Russell terrace, Arlington, to their homes, treating Pattee for many bruises on the head and Cook for bruises on the face.

Dr. Pillsbury dressed several injuries received by Daniel I. Clifford of 115 Westminster avenue, Arlington, who is a clerk in the Somerville post office and who was on his way to work.

The unknown men were taken by Mrs. J. G. Colquhoun, matron of the Somerville city home, directly opposite the scene of the accident, to the office of that institution. She dressed the ear of one, badly cut by the flying glass, and the hand of another. She failed to obtain their names or their addresses.

Fred Valentine of 936 Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, and Daniel Gains of 28 Winter street, Arlington, were injured in the back and James S. Donohue of 87 Irving street, West Somerville, was hurt in the left leg, arm and back.

The other passengers were considerably shocked and some were cut by flying glass. Traffic on the street car lines were tied up for over half an hour.

ROUGH WEATHER PURSUES THE FLEET

Target Rafts, However, Being Repaired—Sailors Must Bathe Every Day or be Subjected to Hoss Treatment.

Atlantic fleet inactive on the Southern drill grounds. The wind and sea are moderating, however, and tugs began Monday to repair the target rafts. Admiral Schroeder hopes to resume practice immediately, but the shortage of tugs makes this doubtful. The officers and men, keyed up for battle practice, are growing restless under the inactivity. All are well aboard the fleet. The Nebraska, Virginia, Louisiana and Minnesota have gone to Hampton Roads for coal.

There was consternation among the officers and crew of the Kansas when orders were flashed through the fleet by wireless from the flagship Connecticut that every man aboard must take a bath and change his underclothing every morning before the ship went into "action." The complete absence of blood poisoning among the men aboard the Japanese men-of-war during the Russo-Japanese war was attributed to the fact that the Japanese took such precautions to prevent infection of their wounds from soiled clothing. One recent morning the sailors, clad in immaculate duck, were drawn upon the quarter deck and closely interrogated by the officers.

"Had a bath, Murphy?" "No, sir; didn't have time, sir."

"Well, get the hose and take one."

Only two or three men aboard the ship had failed to comply with the order, and all of these were subjected to the hose treatment.

WONT ACCEPT A SETTLEMENT

LINA CAVALIERI THINKS HER BOB DID NOT HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH FAMILY OFFER.

Paris, Sept. 20.—"The Chanler family will save itself trouble by not submitting to me the reported offer of $10,000 down and $5000 annuity for the surrender of by ante-nuptial agreement with Robert Winthrop Chanler, for I won't accept any such offer."

This was Lina Cavalieri's answer Monday when asked if she had received the offer that it is said the Chanler family stands ready to make.

"If I have any rights under the agreement, I shall insist upon them," the singer said. "If I have no rights I do not wish to profit from the Chanler family. I don't think my husband had anything to do with the offer. It doesn't sound as though coming from him."

"He went into the agreement with his eyes open and I still believe that he intends to carry out the agreement as far as it is possible for him to do so. I understand the Chanler family accuses me of being mercenary. Could anything be more mercenary than this attempt to buy me off, the same as though I were an adventuress? I am glad the offer has been proposed, for it shows where the mercenary spirit lies."

SAYS CHANLER HAS AGREED

His Family Seek of Force Him to Revoke Power of Attorney He Gave Lina Cavalieri.

New York, Sept. 20.—The influence of the entire Chanler family is being exerted upon Robert Winthrop Chanler to force him to revoke the power of attorney he gave Lina Cavalieri in the celebrated ante-nuptial agreement which is now on file in the register's office in this city. That became definitely known Monday. It is understood that Chanler had practically agreed to such a course after it had been pointed out to him that it was the only way in which he could ever hope to regain his fortune from the control of his singer wife.

If Chanler has agreed to this there promises to be one of the bitterest fights in the history of the state when Cavalieri learns of his action.

Oreste Cavalieri, brother of Lina Cavalieri, said that Sheriff "Bob" had won the consent of his wife to spend considerable time at his dairy farm on his Redhook estate.

"My friend Chanler, my sister's husband, undoubtedly did and does madly love my sister, Natalina," he said. "When wooing her in Paris, he often spoke of his Redhook estate and of the splendid dairy farm that he had bought, particularly with the hope that at times Lina, bored with the city, could go to Dutchess county and there become a charming milkmaid."

Young Cavalieri has been in touch with his sister by letter and cable and is confident that nothing can stand in the way of her securing the property decided her, as well as the $20000 yearly income promised in the ante-nuptial agreement.

LOCOMOTIVE IN THE PIT

WENT OFF TURN TABLE AT JEWETT AND WRECKING CREW CALLED.

A locomotive used on the Conway branch of the Boston and Maine railroad is jolted up in the turntable at Jewett, N. H., and the wrecking crew from this city have been called to place the locomotive back on the track.

The locomotive in going to the table struck and pitched over into the pit. The engine was badly damaged and the turntable put out of commission. A wrecking crew from this city left last evening for Jewett.

Monday's storm was a typical dry northeaster, and a temperature several degrees below normal. The storm kicked up a heavy sea off the coast.

INJURIES WERE FATAL

Sidney McGrath Caught Between Cars at Greenland Dies at Hospital

Sidney McGrath, aged 23 years, a brakeman on the Boston and Maine railroad, died at the Cottage Hospital early this morning, as a result of injuries received at Greenland station late Monday afternoon.

McGrath is said to have been adjusting the valves of the air brake between two milk cars when his head was caught and badly crushed. He suffered a scalp wound and a fracture of the skull.

Conductor Baker of the freight telegraphed ahead to this city for the ambulance and medical aid. The injured man was placed in the buggy of the train, which came along at fast speed to Portsmouth, where he was taken to the Cottage Hospital.

Everything possible was done to relieve the unfortunate man, but he remained unconscious and the end came at 2 o'clock.

He was a single man and resided at 28 Brighton street, Charlestown, Mass.

VAUDEVILLE AT MUSIC HALL

Theatre Patrons Saw a Good Show on Monday Evening

The vaudeville acts at Music Hall last evening were very interesting. The singing and dancing by Floyd and Russell made a great hit. Mr. Floyd who was formerly leading tenor of the Golden Gate Quintet, sang "She's just too sweet to live," in a very pleasing manner, and the spotlight song "Dear old Moonlight," and the dance were very cleverly given. Miss Russell's vocal selection, "Naughty Eyes," created much applause. In fact, this double act seemed to give perfect satisfaction and is one of the best seen here in vaudeville. Miss Russell's wardrobe is very expensive and extremely beautiful, consisting in part of a princess dress of pale blue satin with net over dress and handsomely embroidered with velvet flowers, also a so-called "diamond costume" of coarse satin covered with cut rhinestones which is a magnificent affair. Another is of black satin handsomely trimmed with gilt and a very pretty pink costume, all of which are displayed during her engagement here. She was a member of Gus Hill's "Smart Set," of Graham's Cake Walk Co., the Big Sensation Co., and the Katherine Rober Repertoire Co. Floyd and Russell are certainly great dancers as well as singers and the audience were loth to have them leave the stage. They are sure to draw good houses during their stay.

Murtha, the whistling imitator of birds and animals was especially good and an expert in his line. He whistles with fifteen handkerchiefs in his mouth, also whistles while smoking. His imitations of a rooster, chicken and baby are very perfect and no artificial appliances, what ever, are used. He kept the audience quite interested during the entire act.

The pictures were, as usual, of high standard.

Tonight the patrons of this playhouse will see the wonderful Canadian drama, "The Wolf," on its third appearance in this city.
